work is proportional to the effective pressure of the steam and the number of strokes of the piston in a given time, or it is proportional to the product of these two variables.

Now, in the example in question, the pressure of the steam (as indicated by the safety-valve, and therefore to be increased by one atmosphere) is reported to have varied from 75 to 90, or to have averaged 77.5 pounds to the square inch, and the stream was cut off at one-third of the stroke of the piston. From these data, the mean pressure in the cylinder is estimated at 64.54, and the effective pressure, after deducting for friction according to the formula of Pambour, at 41.86.

The number of revolutions of the engine (or double strokes of the piston) is reported to have been from 53 to 64, or to have averaged 58.5 per minute.

The effective power of the engine (or rather of the engines, for there were two), was therefore proportional to 58.5 x 41.86 = or to 2439.

STRAIM-SMITH, with LOPEZ PROPELLERS. In May, 1845, Lopez's propellers were substituted in the Spencer for Hunter's wheels, (the engines being the same and in the same condition), and experimental trials were made on the Delaware, and were witnessed by the committee of the institute. For the required comparison, the trip made on the 23d of May, from Newcastle to the Delaware breakwater, is selected. On this occasion, the mean velocity obtained was 3.30 miles per hour, and consequently the performance was proportional to the cube of this number, or to 35.93. The average pressure of the steam was 49.09 (or more properly by adding the atmospheric pressure 49.09 to 7.63 = 56.72), and it was cut off at half stroke. From these data the mean pressure in the cylinder is estimated at 54.03, and the effective pressure after deducting friction at 32.53. The mean number of revolutions of the engines was 44.45 per minute. The effective power of the engine, therefore, proportional to 44.45 x 32.53 = or to 1450.

COMPARISON OF THE RESULTS.—From these results we find that the power exerted by the engines with Hunter's wheels, was to that with the Lopez propellers, as 2239 to 1450, or as 1.55, while the work done by the wheels was to that done by the propellers at 374.6 to 325.3, or as 1.15 to 1.00.

Hence it appears that Lopez's propellers do 3,000 times more work than Hunter's wheels, with 0.622 of the power, and therefore with the same power would be 3,000/0.622 = 4,824, four and eight-tenths times more efficient. This is a very remarkable result, but it is one which should have been anticipated from the evidence of power inseparable from the use of the Hunter wheels, and it shows that their further employment ought to be abandoned.

A change from the Hunter to the Lopez propellers was also made in the United States steamer "Water Witch," and opportunities of witnessing her performance with the latter propeller were presented to the committee, and full notes of the result have been preserved. But, unfortunately, the report has been long delayed for the purpose satisfactory information has not yet been procured as to the performance with the submerged wheel, the essential element of the speed attained being so uncertain that cannot be relied on for comparison.

Further efforts have been made to procure the necessary data for a just comparison of the two propellers in this case, and if they shall be successful, it will be in the power of the committee to make an important addition to this.

CONSUMPTION, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, liver complaint, spitting blood, difficulty of breathing, pain in the chest, palpitation of the heart, influenza, croup, broken constitution, sore throat, nervous debility, and all diseases of the throat, breast, and lungs.—The most effective and speedy cure ever known for any of the above diseases.

DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF CONSUMPTION. PAID FOR BY THE PATIENT, $100, Sept. 20, 1845.

DR. SWAYNE.—Dear Sir: I feel called, by a sense of duty to you, to suffering humanity, to acknowledge my grateful thanks for the wonderful effects of your "Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry," on me, after having suffered months after months with the most afflicting of all diseases, (consumption), with scarcely a ray of hope, or "beam of light" to guard me against any horrible forebodings. The circumstances which first led to this fearful state of debility, was taking a very heavy "cold," which seemed to fix itself upon the lungs, which gradually grew worse, with profuse night-sweats, a hacking cough, oppression in the breast, spitting blood, with great general debility. My constitution was so much impaired, and nervous system very much impaired, with all the symptoms of confirmed consumption. I went to Philadelphia, and was treated there by physicians of the highest standing, but I was not cured, and until they gave me up as incurable, and advised me to go South; but being very poor, and having lost so much time from my work, and having spent all my money on various "patent medicines," which were recommended to me, I was obliged to return to my home, and I was unable to take their advice. Being a member of the order of Odd Fellows, they supplied me with money gratuitously to send me to my friends in Maine, and I was cured by physicians of the highest standing there, but received no benefit whatever from them, but gradually grew worse, until my physicians and myself gave up all hopes of my ever recovering, and I felt like one doomed to pass the remainder of my life in the shadow of death. At this awful juncture, I heard of your "Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry," and knowing you to be a regular practicing physician, and a man of great confidence in the medicine, so I concluded, as a last resort, to make a trial of it. I sent to your agent in Boston, and purchased one bottle, which relieved me very much. I then procured two bottles more, which I am happy to say cured me, and I am now enjoying better health than I ever have before in my life. It seemed to have a beneficial effect at once. I gained strength rapidly, although reduced to a mere skeleton, and I feel satisfied that the salutary effects in my own case, that Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry will cure any case of diseased lungs, if taken according to the prescribed rules contained in the pamphlet accompanying the medicine, and I can give any proof that my case is highly recommended in similar cases; and I wish you to make this public, so that others who are suffering as I have been may know where to get a cure, and I feel that I can reach their disease, before tampering with and ruining their constitutions with the many "quack nostrums" with which the whole country is flooded, prepared by persons who have no knowledge of the science of medicine, and who give away their proof that my case is not exaggerated in the least.

TO SOUTHERN AND WESTERN MERCHANTS.

WE respectfully call your attention to the following reasons why you should make your purchases of goods in the New York market, very frankly confessing it is our desire that you should do so.

It must be admitted that from 50 to 60 per cent. of all the foreign merchandise which is imported into this country is received into the port of New York. Of course there is here the opportunity for the widest selection. The stock of goods on hand in this city is at all times larger than the united stocks of all the other eastern cities. It is equally certain that New York is the chief and great depot for the manufacturers of the eastern and middle States, and of the products of the western.

The continental of Ohio and Illinois canals is making a very great change in the commercial routes of the traffic of the Great West.

The prices of goods in New York, by reason of its immense supplies, and the consequent competition, are necessarily lower, and credits are extended on as liberal a scale as at any other point.

The merchants, manufacturers, and importers, whose addresses are subjoined, are prepared to prove the truth of the above statements, and will be happy to dispose of their goods on terms which will verify all that is asserted here.
